California Ranch News

Shipment of over 50,000 pounds of wool was made recently by the Vail Company of Calipatria. This was taken from 7326 sheep, making about seven pounds from each animal. The wool was sold to a Los Angeles firm, and the price was said to be very satisfactory.

A new record for Valencia orange crops in California is claimed for a five-acre grove owned by the Rialto Orange Company at Bakersfield. The firm claimed net returns from that grove last season of $13,739.43, through a report from J. T. Canady. The company picked 5298 field boxes from the five acres last season, according to the report. The fruit came from trees, many of which are more than 30 years old.

While the State Tax Commission deliberated in San Francisco on means of keeping the California taxation system from going to the "bow-wows," it became known last week that a State tax on dogs is actually being considered. A bill at the next session of the legislature compelling licensing under State supervision of every dog in California is in contemplation, according to reliable reports at the capitol. Dog license taxes, according to the proposal as reported, would be collected by the State and used to reimburse live stock men whose sheep or other animals are killed by dogs.

A wool drying machine that will dry fleece from the saturation point to the humidity of the surrounding air in the scarcely believable short time of six minutes has just been perfected by Professor J. F. Wilson of the Animal Husbandry Division of the University of California College of Agriculture. The previous time necessary was four hours. The machine is used in drying wool samples.

In spite of the fact that California with its 11,000 acres of Globe artichokes furnishing the entire supply for the United States and Canada, has developed a satisfactory method of handling crops, a number of improvements have been discovered through experimental work at the University of California Davis Farm. Among other things, removal of flower stalks immediately after the last picking increases the next year's yield, and cutting off old plants above the surface is better than below because of young buds which start as early as January which may be damaged.

Experimental shipments being conducted by the Italian Swiss Colony of Asti may lead to the development of substantial out-of-season demand for California grapes. When the steamship Finland of the Panama Pacific Line departed from San Francisco last week on its last intercoastal trip before being scrapped, it carried in its refrigeration hold a shipment of 400 barrels of Sonoma county grapes which have been preserved in a frozen state since the harvesting season last October. This shipment, according to Edmund Rossi, president of the Italian Swiss Colony, is only a portion of a 3000-barrel allotment to be placed on the New York market during the next few months by his firm.

Interest in the meeting of the American Institute of Cooperation which is to be held in California July 9 to 28, ending at the University of California, has been greatly heightened by revelation of the fact that private business interests through the United States have raised a million dollar fund to break up cooperative marketing projects. This move is to be accomplished, it is said, by propaganda against the system sent out to farming centers. The business men raising the fund are assuming that cooperative marketing is a failure in order to clear the way for a resumption of plans desired by themselves. Discussions of all phases of the marketing problems will be held by the Institute.

A newly designed grain dryer which it is believed will be of great help in solving problems concerned with the successful removal of moisture from grain without injury to the kernels, has just been announced by the Division of Agricultural Engineering of the University of California College of Agriculture. Professor E. J. Stirniman, head of the division states that they will attempt to determine the maximum amount of moisture that can be removed, starting work on rice first.

Golden State
News of Interest to All

California inspected 8,148 ships and 1,497 fishing boats during 1927 in port inspection work enforcing quarantines against introduction of dangerous agricultural pests. The work included inspection of 6,153,431 parcels of plants and plant products, according to George H. Hecke, State director of agriculture, and 2,600 insect pests, including many not now existing in California, were intercepted.

Reflecting the rapidity with which California's water resources are being harnessed for the development of agriculture, industry and domestic life, Harold Conkling, chief of the division of water rights, department of public works, last week reported that $90,665,861 in water projects were authorized by his department in 1927. In all there were 248 development permits issued.

The six Folsom Thanksgiving Day rioters a few days ago pleaded not guilty to the second charge of murder filed against them in connection with their uprising and will go on trial before Superior Judge J. R. Hughes at Sacramento on March 26. The convict sextet is accused of the murder of George "Red" Baker, Folsom trusty shot down during the mutiny last November.

California's county budget system, provided for by the last Legislature, is probably the best local budgeting plan in America, according to Alexander R. Heron, State director of finance. Under the new budget law boards of supervisors are required to prepare a financial set-up showing all sources of income and proposed expenditures. The plan is similar to that followed by the State government.

The activities of the surveyor general's office between July 1, 1926, and February 2, 1928, netted the State $221,219.45 in school moneys and funds for its other functions, Surveyor General W. S. Kingsbur reported recently. The sale of public lands turned over to the State by the government in lieu of the two sections per township set aside for schools netted the State $128,986.87. These sales were at the rate of $6.50 per acre. In addition the sale of school lands at public auction netted $66,919.60, while rent and royalties on mineral lands netted $25,312.98.

A $150,845.60 contract for highway work in Imperial county was awarded to the Jahn & Bressi Construction Company of Los Angeles county a few days ago by Bert B. Meek, State director of public works.

Rejection of all bids by California oil companies for gasoline and oil supplies to State-owned automobiles operating without a fixed base was announced a few days ago by W. G. McMillin, State Purchasing Agent. McMillin's action was taken because the bids were all too high and were nearly identical. The State will readvertise. The business aggregates $80,000 annually.

The largest commercial ship built on the Pacific Coast since 1922 was launched last week at the Potrero plant of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation at San Francisco. The vessel, the Waialeale, was built for the Interisland Steam Navigation Company of Honolulu at a cost of $1,500,000 for the passenger service between the various islands of the Hawaiian group. The Waialeale is 310 feet long with a beam of forty-eight feet and is equipped with twin screw turbine engines of 2,000 horsepower each.

Not less than 2,200,000 names on the great register of California for the presidential primaries this Spring is the expectation of Charles Hagerty, State election statistician in the office of Secretary of State Frank C. Jordon. If Hagerty's predictions are verified, the record will exceed any other registration total by approximately 300,000, or 16 per cent. And with such colorful candidates as Al Smith and Senator Reed and Herbert Hoover making the race, Hagerty is confident that the vote also may establish a new high mark in State politics.

The United States government has flatly refused to participate in the cost of the Klamath river bridge, erected with "faulty construction" during the administration of former Governor Friend W. Richardson, and has demanded that California return $120,000 in federal aid funds advanced on the project. The division of highways, State department of public works, so announced a few days, declaring that the present administration has fallen heir to difficulties which were described as involving the structure since the day of its dedication by former Governor Richardson in 1926. The announcement said notice of the federal government's position has been formally served on California highway authorities.

"QUALITY STREET" SENIOR CLASS PLAY AT GRAMMAR AUDITORIUM TONIGHT

"Quality Street," the play by James M. Barrie, will be presented this evening at 8 o'clock by the senior class of Campbell High, in the Grammar School Auditorium.

The play is most enjoyable. It has that nice, prim atmosphere that takes you back to the days when women were very feminine and men had the habit of being so "dashing."

"Quality Street" is full of humorous situations at which the members of the cast are still able to laugh after weeks of practicing.

It seems rather a pity that the public is not allowed behind the scenes. The genteel atmosphere of the play is perhaps altered a little, but the impromtu "acts" are a source of much enjoyment to the cast.

MARSTON-LENT

One of the happy events of the season was the marriage of Miss Maude Marston of Union avenue to Mr. Donald Lent of Oakland yesterday at Oakland.

Those present from Campbell, who attended the ceremony were: Mrs. Ruth Eddlemon, Miss Wilma Smith and Miss Helen Jones a cousin of Miss Marstons.

The happy couple will spend their honeymoon in Carmel after which they will make their home in Oakland.

Their many friends extend them best wishes.

Six more representatives in Congress from California are promised in a plan for reapportionment of the House membership approved last week by the House census committee, according to Associated Press dispatches from Washington. The reapportionment is to be made upon the basis of the next census, to be taken in 1930. There was no change in the House membership under the 1920 census, although the Constitution provides for a reapportionment upon the basis of population of each State during each ten-year census period.

Fearing that convicts were plotting a prison break as desperate as that which took a dozen lives at Folsom on Thanksgiving Day, guards at the San Quentin Penitentiary last week were searching the entire prison for weapons. The prison officials declined to comment on the investigation, but it was learned that they had been "tipped off" that several guns and many knives were secreted in the prison.

The State Department of Industrial Relations is attempting to bring together California's labor leaders and the leaders of those who employ labor in working out plans for new laws at the 1929 session of the Legislature. The attempt, already is partially a success, according to a statement by Will J. French, departmental director, revealing that the representatives of employers and employes have agreed to meet in conference with State officials in an effort to avert confusion.

The initiative petition for the repeal of California's so-called "boxing law," which permits commercial prize-fighting, will be ready for circulation within a few weeks, it was announced last week by Fred E. Parr, San Francisco business man and president of the California State Church Federation. "The petition is now being drafted in Los Angeles," Parr declared. "Attorneys say that it may take several days for completion, and after that the petition must be approved by the attorney general before being circulated.

P-T A HOLDS ENJOYABLE PARTY

"There was a sound of revelry" last night at the Campbell Grammar School, when, far removed from the eyes of the critical young, frisky maids, girlish matrons and prancing fathers were led through the intricacies of kindergarten games by Mr. George Cass, supervisor of play for Santa Clara county. As a reward for their antics, several prominent citizens received prizes of celluloid ducks and automatic choo-choo trains, casting dull care aside, on pleasure bent, the oldish young and youngish old literally tripped it on the "light fantastic" till the eleventh hour.

The opportunity for all this ultra joyousness on the part of the staid "pillars of society" was afforded by the giving of a supper by the Campbell High School P. T. A. in the Grammar School cafeteria. Delicately tinted, even the salads and dessert carried out the motif of green and white decorations, in honor of St. Patrick. During the meal, Mrs. Atkinson sang "If I Only Knew," and Miss Howes recited, "In Amsterdam."

Prof. Emil Lundquist, whose evening discussions of current problems have been drawing an interested, enthusiatic and increasingly large group of citizens each successive Monday evening at the High School, spoke a few words, both serious and humorous, concluding with a plea for all of us to strive to analyze the forces that have made each one of us and every other human being what he is today.

Join the Band

The Campbell Union High School is extending its music department to include band music once a week. Mr. A. A. Thiekle, who has charge of the band and orchestra in the Day School, is to have charge of this work. All persons interested in band music are requested to apply for admission and report on Wednesday evening with their instrument at the High School Annex. Meetings are called for 8 o'clock.

BRIDGE LUNCHEON

The charming new home of Mrs. George Robson was the scene of a beautifully appointed luncheon Tuesday when she and Miss Emeline Beattie of San Jose were hosts to a group of their Campbell and San Jose friends.

The rooms were effectively decorated with lovely bowls of daffodils, jonquils and tulips. The small tables at which luncheon was served were indicative of both the spring season and the approaching St. Patrick's day. The center pieces were green flower candle holders bearing tall green tapers, and the place cards supported perky upstanding sweet peas. The dainty menu also carried out the "green" motif.

The remaining afternoon was devoted to bridge for which Mrs. L. T. Lenox and Mrs. W. H. Stray were awarded first and second honors.

Mrs. F. V. Perrott, who sails soon for her home in England, was the recipient of a lovely necklace, the gift of the hostesses.

FRIENDS GUESTS

Miss Doris Ashdown of San Francisco was the week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Perrott and Jack Moss erecently of England, was entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Shearer.

Both of these visitors are fine singers, Miss Ashdown having sung for Campbell groups in the past. On Sunday afternoon, Colonel and Mrs. Charles McMurdo of Meridian road entertained informally at afternoon tea, the two out-of-town guests giving generously of their talents for the pleasure of the company.

KIWANIANS ASK FOR ELECTION

The Kiwanis meeting Tuesday noon was a closed one and given over to discussion of several of the projects and objectives of this club.

President Merrill presented a petition which was unanimously signed by the members of the club asking the County Board of Supervisors to call an election on the question of establishing a sanitary district.

A more concrete method of service to the Boy Scouts and Campfires was discussed.

Ed Weisendanger presided and urged a goodly attendance at directors' meeting Monday. The boys are looking forward t oan interesting talk Tuesday when Henri Hill of Bohnett, Hill & Campbell, San Jose attorneys, will discuss "Community Property." Roy Archibald will show his accumulative proclivities and commandeer the decimos.

Last Game

This Saturday night, March 17, the Campbell Alumni unlimited and Alumni 145s will close their 1927-28 season by playing two games in the Campbell High School gymnasium.

Their opponents will be the Santa Cruz Huskies and the Santa Cruz Druids.

The Campbell alumni unlimited has won five games this season and has not suffered defeat yet and the fast 145s have won 8 out of 11 games.

Campfire Program

Mrs. L. Shelley will be chairman of the program for the meeting of the High School P.-T. A. Tuesday, March 20 at 3 p. m. The program will be along Campfire lines, but has not been definitely announced. All mothers of high school students and others interested in work for young people are cordially invited.

GIRLS' GLEE CLUB HIGHLY PRAISED

The leading feature of the regular meeting of Orchard City Grange of Campbell on Tuesday evening was the lecturer's program which consisted of singing by the Girls' Glee club of the Campbell grammar school.

The girls, 26 in number, made a genuine hit with the members of the grange as they marched to their places, an din the rendering of the songs, "Song of India," "California Lullaby," Volga Boatman," and "Indian Dawn."

Miss Helen Nielson, their director and teacher, deserves great credit in the happy result of her efforts. The girls were: Shirley Eddlemon, Idell Fulton, Mary Furtado, Geneva Di Fiori, Joy Cushing, Eleanor Wood, Barbara Husted, Barbara Kopp, Nina Fay Samford, Elizabeth Mumma, Phillis Stewart, Nadine Gruewell, Irene Escover, Lea Gillis, Mary Sawtelle, Lois Bachman, Freda Atkins, Betty Keesling, Gladys Nelson, Sallie Davidson, Leonora Johnson, Lena Campisi, Pauline Costello, Marjorie Prout, Isabel Martin, June Cushing.

A talk by Rev. Joseph Bennett, pastor of the Campbell Congregational Church, in which wit and wisdom were delightfully mingled was well recieved and appreciated by the grange. In declaring that he was aware of "the noble program that the grange stands for," the speaker declared that his signature to an application for membership may not be long delayed.

Among other business matters considered by the grange were some of the bills now before Congress, brought up for consideration by the committee on legislation, F. G. Myers speaking for the committee. The Borah commission merchant regulatory bill and the Swing-Johnson 'Boulder Dam' bills were approved. The possible call for an election relating to the formation of a sanitary district was called to the attention of the grange by Dr. W. I. Merrill.

The hall was decorated with daffodils and other seasonal flowers.

C OF C PLANS RADIO PROGRAM

In the absence of Secretary Dunlap at the Chamber of Commerce Monday evening, President H. C. Smith appointed Ralph Gardner.

In answer to a request from Stanislaus County Development Board the president stated that some of Campbell's advertising leaflets were sent to headquarters at Modesto.

The resignation of Mrs. Mary Campbell from the membership committee was on motion granted.

The offer of the Holy City broadcasting station to the Chamber of Commerce for an evening program was accepted and the president appointed P. H. Dunlap, D. H. Cramer and C. H. Whitman to make arrangements and outline the program. The Choral Society will probably furnish several numbers for which it has already made a record.

The secretary was authorized to send a letter of appreciation to the two San Jose dailies thanking them for the generous publicity given the annual Old Settlers' celebration.

The chamber endorsed the petition of residents of Alice way for a light at the Third street intersection.

The term of S. N. Hedegard as Trustee on the Grammar Board expires this year. He has signified his intention to be a candidate for re-election and as he has made a very efficient member of that board deserves to be re-elected.

J. E. Weisendanger's and J. L. Hagelin's terms expire at this time as high school trustees and to date no one has filed intention to oppose them for re-election.

Quotations from Hall of Fame

"Man wants but little here below,
Nor wants that little long."
'Tis not with me exactly so;
But 'tis so in the song.
My wants are many, and, if told,
Would muster many a score;
And were each wish a mint of gold,
I still would long for more.

—John Quincy Adams.

Qualities of Masterful People

(By THEODORE ROOSEVELT)

Let those who have, keep, let those who have not, strive to attain, a high standard of cultivation and scholarship. Yet let us remember that these stand second to certain other things. There is need of a sound body, and even more need of a sound mind. But above mind and above body stands character—the sum of those qualities which we mean when we speak of a man's force and courage, of his good faith and sense of honour. I believe in exercise for the body, always provided that we keep in mind that physical development is a means and not an end. I believe, of course, in giving to all the people a good education. But the education must contain much besides book learning in order to be really good. We must ever remember that no keenness and subtleness of intellect, no polish, no cleverness in any way make up for the lack of the great solid qualities. Self-restraint, self-mastery, common sense, the power of accepting individual responsibility and yet of acting in conjunction with others, courage and resolution—these are the qualities which mark a masterful people. I speak to a brilliant assemblage; I speak in a great university which represents the flower of the highest intellectual development; I pay all homage to intellect, and to elaborate and specialized training of the intellect; and yet I know that I shall have the assent of all of you present when I add that more important still are the commonplace, every-day qualities and virtues. . . .

Dependency

IT IS SAID that of one hundred persons living at the age of sixty-five years, eighty-five are dependent on others. Dependency in old age sometimes is the result of thoughtlessness and improvidence, but illness and other misfortunes may also contribute to it. Much misery in later years can be avoided by opening a savings account now in the American Trust Company and faithfully pursuing a systematic savings policy. Four per cent interest, compounded semi-annually, increases the deposits to a surprising degree.

Picked a Winner

In the contest of the American section of the Poetry Society of Great Britain out of 600 submitted, the first prize went to Edwin Markham and the second to Justice Wendell Phillips Stafford of Washington. The latter's theme has not ceased to inspire:

LINDBERGH
By
Justice Wendell Phillips Stafford

Lone eagle of the wild Atlantic plain,
Tall, laughing boy, with sunglints in your eyes,
Playfellow of the lightning and the rain,
Co-sentry with old watchers in the skies,
Light-hearted prologue to the epic muse.
Glad reuniter of long-riven parts,
Bright Hermes of the nations, bringing news
Of love still flaming in all human hearts!
"Do I deserve all this?" Oh, more, far more,
More than the grateful world can ever pay.
A fouler fog than hides Newfoundland's shore
Your little bark's propeller hirled away.
Fly on, above the midst of sordid things:
Rise, like the sun, with healing in your wings!

Sound Advice

Have you ever stopped to consider the signal code of the average driver? It is a very simple code and not difficult to acquire. It follows:

To indicate right turn—stick out your hand.

To indicate left turn—stick out your hand.

To indicate that you are about to stop—stick out your hand.

To indicate that you are about to back—stick out your hand.

To emphasize your conversation with your fellow passenger—stick out your hand.

To flick off the ashes of your cigar—stick out your hand.

This is the generally accepted code. Under the circumstances it is remarkable that accidents are not more frequent.—Thomas Top-

In speeding up the California highway program, projects on which free labor will be used will be given priority over those employing convict labor, Director of Public Works B. B. Meek announced last week. Of the $50,000,000 to be spent on highways in the two-year period from July 1, 1927, all but $600,000 will go for wages or payments for supplies made by free labor. In addition to the $600,000 of State funds, convict labor projects will have $2,500,000 of Federal aid money, Meek said.

California's total bank deposits aggregate $2,750,000,000, according to official figures compiled at San Francisco by W. Espey Albig, deputy manager of the American Bankers' Association. Of this total, approximately $1,750,000,000 represents savings accounts to the credit of three million depositors. "California," Albig explained, "is one of the most prosperous states in the Union. The per capita savings totaling $399, compares favorably even with the much older and more conservative communities of New England, where people are traditionally thrifty.

SCOUT NOTES

Last Sunday the Campbell Sea Scouts, accompanied by the San Jose crew, went on a cruise up the bay. We left Alviso at 7 a. m. and returned at 5 p. m. The cruise was commanded by Dennis Holler, the San Jose scoutmaster.

Arriving at Alviso the U. S. cutters were fitted out and lunches, etc., were stowed aboard. Getting under way with the oars we rowed out to the P. G. & E. dock, where the sails were hoisted and getting under way again we sailed almost to Dumbarton Bridge. After eating lunch there was a race into Alviso. The two boats were neck and neck most of the way, the more experienced San Jose fellows finally winning out.

The Campbell crew was composed of: Elwyn Overshiner, Elmer Sundquist, Noel Voge, Alfred Beer, Kenneth Beer, Elwood Swane, Henry Ruthneck and Red Brown.
